Introduction

Bukhara, which is situated on the Silk Route, is more than 2,000 years old. It is the most complete example of a medieval city in Central Asia, with an urban fabric that has remained largely intact. Monuments of particular interest include the famous tomb of Ismail Samani, a masterpiece of 10th-century Muslim architecture, and a large number of 17th-century madrasas.

The Historic Centre of Bukhara, situated on the Silk Roads, is more than two thousand years old. It is one of the best examples of well preserved Islamic cities of Central Asia of the 10th to 17th centuries, with an urban fabric that has remained largely intact. Bukhara was long an important economic and cultural center in Central Asia.

The ancient Persian city served as a major center of Islamic culture for many centuries and became a major cultural center of the Caliphate in the 8th century. With the exception of a few important vestiges from before the Mongol invasions of Genghis Khan in 1220 and Temur in 1370, the old town bears witness to the urbanism and architecture of the Sheibani period of Uzbek rule, from the early 16th century onwards.

However, the real importance of Bukhara lies not in its individual buildings but rather in its overall townscape, demonstrating the high and consistent level of urban planning and architecture that began with the Sheibanid dynasty.

Despite the insensitivity of much of the new construction from 1920 until the 1950s and earthquake damages, Bukhara retains much of its historic ambience and still has a largely intact urban fabric. In addition, large numbers of the outstanding earthen buildings are in some quarters extremely vulnerable due to the deterioration of the historic fabric.

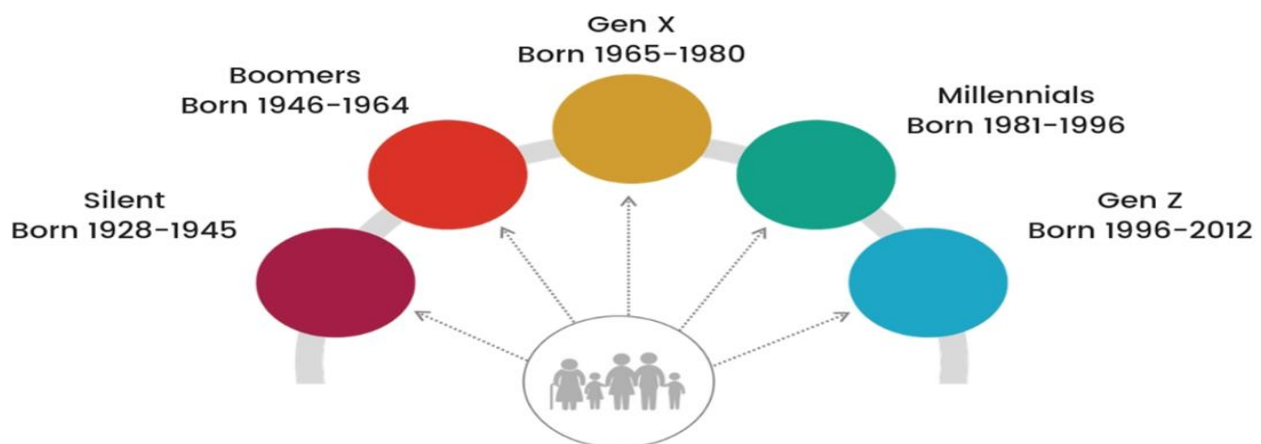

Bukhara has preserved a great deal of its urban layout that dates from the Sheibanid period. Modern buildings have been erected in the historic centre over the past half-century that have destroyed the appearance of some quarters, but in others the medieval townscape has survived. The proportion of old structures, particularly the public and religious buildings, nonetheless remains high, and the historic centre is unquestionably of outstanding significance as an exceptional example of a largely medieval Muslim city of Central Asia.

By the passing a time Generation Silent (born 1928-1945) and Boomers (born 1946-1964) getting less , but these generation were the most who visited Uzbekistan and especially ancient cities as Bukhara, but Gen X (born 1965-1980) and Millennials (born 1981-1996) can visit Uzbekistan too, but with another aim , that’s why it is important to be prepared and offer them some other type of services rather than just historical monuments. It is necessary to consider about developing MICE tourism in combining with historical monument. At the initial stage of development of HALAL MICE tourism in Bukhara , it is necessary to develop organizational and economic mechanisms for the organization and management of MICE tourism. In the second stage, the goal is to develop legal and regulatory legislation for the development of MICE tourism on the basis of these organizational and economic mechanisms. In the third stage, based on the laws and regulations of tourism development in Bukhara city, we need to register our tourist resources in the regions, prepare their descriptions, create tourist infrastructure and tourist routes in accordance of MICE traveler requirements but with interest of local habitants-Community based tourism and implement of 4 P model in developing M.I.C.E tourism .

Results: As it has become clearly, Bukhara Bureau of Convention and Exhibition (BBCE) aims to achieve wide promotion of MICE tourism. By the purpose to strengthen the city's image as a modern, highly open and hospitable city, Bureau needs to become a member and take part in activities of international M.I.C.E tourism associations, international non-governmental M.I.C.E organizations, it will regularly implement of a comprehensive analysis of the problems and prospects in order to find ways to develop M.I.C.E tourism in the region and create a new model for work in this area, as well as active participation in the sustainable development of M.I.C.E tourism in Bukhara region .Actually, below I am submitting approximate organization chart of Bukhara Bureau of Convention and Exhibition (BBCE) under Bukhara regional branch of Chamber of Commerce and industry of the Republic of Uzbekistan, because M.I.C.E tourism can't be developed as non-profit organization or private company by its own way, because M.I.C.E sectors can't be developed only by private sectors, the government should be involved partially at the present time, in my opinion according to judicial regulation best option is to establish Bukhara Bureau of Convention and Exhibition (BBCE) under regional branch of Chamber of commerce and industry

Conclusion: Furthermore, Uzbekistan is bordered with all Muslim majority neighbor countries and has a rich Islamic heritage and many historical sights which attract Muslims all around. Since MICE tourism is also developing in Uzbekistan and significant portion of MICE visitors also belong to the Muslims faith, country is uniquely positioned to develop and prosper as new halal MICE destinations. On the other hand, there are many challenges which should be overcome such as preparation of halal tourism infrastructure and making event planners ready for every act hosts of halal tourism. Halal tourism industry in Uzbekistan, and halal MICE industry in particular has some obstacles to overcome so demand for such services expands among Muslim travelers to the country. Hala+MICE tourism can be excellent tool of reducing seasonal limitation of destination in Bukhara region example. Additionally, creating the Halal+MICE tourism brand of Bukhara and building Convention Centers in Bukhara city will influence to promote Bukhara as a destination of MICE tourism in general.
