

Hello Gulshan Khamdamova,

I am happy to inform you that your paper entitled “Integrating Information Technology Terminology into English for Specific Purposes (ESP) Classes” has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Higher Education Theory and Practice (ISSN# 2158-3595).

If you accept and are able to make specific formatting changes to your paper so that it conforms to the journal’s standards, it will be published in volume 24(11), 2024. We will email the format requirements to you shortly if you accept.

In an effort to promote the journal and increase author citation rates, at this time, we require a one-year subscription for each accepted manuscript. Only one subscription is needed regardless of the number of authors. With your subscription, all authors will receive a PDF copy of their published manuscript issue, along with one year of access to our subscription portal. The subscription price for the Journal of Higher Education Theory and Practice is $595.

Further instructions are provided in the Publication Format Guidelines upon your acceptance. Please let us know as soon as possible whether or not you would like your paper included. Again, congratulations.

Our journals are indexed by UMI-Proquest-ABI Inform, EBSCOhost, Google Scholar, and listed with Cabell’s Directory, Ulrich’s Listing of Periodicals, Bowkers Publishing Resources, the Library of Congress, the National Library of Canada, and Australia’s Department of Education Science and Training. Furthermore, articles in our journals have been used to support the faculty academically qualified (AQ) status of all major accrediting bodies.

Best Regards,
